Andrew Sainz Promoted to Doug Zanes' Executive Assistant

Tucson, Ariz. (March 13, 2014) – Zanes Law, an injury firm with offices in Tucson and Phoenix, announces that Andrew Sainz, a six-year employee with the firm, has been promoted to Executive Assistant to Doug Zanes, the practice's CEO/Responsible Attorney.

A Tucson native and Santa Rita High School graduate, Sainz began his career at Zanes Law in January 2008, and worked his way up as intake manager and settlement coordinator before being promoted in January to Zanes' executive assistant. In his new role, Sainz is responsible for regular audits of cases to ensure company standards are being met, reviewing some day-to-day operations with Zanes and assisting Zanes with any duties required to ensure smooth operation of the practice.

"At Zanes Law, we take great pride in the fact that we have always given our team members great opportunities to move up within the company," Zanes said. "A Zanes Law team member's future success within the organization is 100 percent dependent on his or her skill set, intelligence and drive. Andrew has excelled within the company and we take great pride in providing him with the opportunity to move forward and upward in his career."

"For the past six years, I've enjoyed helping injured clients rebuild their lives after life-changing accidents," said Sainz, who is engaged and has a young daughter. "My new role will allow me to continue helping our clients by making sure Mr. Zanes, the other attorneys and all of my team members have what they need to help more people."

Zanes Law encourages employees to volunteer for community events and charities. For three years, Sainz has worked with the Beat Cancer Boot Camp 5K to promote health, fitness and provide camaraderie for those affected by cancer. He has also volunteered his time and energy to Emerge Centers Against Domestic Violence's Holiday House, the Salvation Army's Back to School Child Spree and the American Heart Association's annual 5K Heart Walk.
